NORTHWEST ALSO GOOD

Southwest Section of State Appears to Have Been Hit the Hardest

Crops in many sections of the state are above the average this year, according to Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor John N. Hagan, who has returned from an extensive automobile trip through many counties.

Mr. Hagan passed through the Canadian border counties of Renville, Bottineau, Rolette, Cavalier, Towner and Pembina in his trip. The crops generally in these counties were above the average, with harvest nearing, he said. The wheat crop was a little better than average, the oats crop a little short except in the Red River valley counties, and rye is fair. Rye is now being cut. The potato crop generally was good, he said.

Mr. Hagan received information from persons who had visited Wilmot, Mountaintop, McKenzie, Burke and Divide counties, in the northwest part of the state, and reports stated that the crops would be average or better. Conditions in north central counties, including Ward and McHenry, are spotted. Unless rust gains great headway crops in the Red River valley will be above the average, it is stated. They are good between Jamestown and Fargo, he said. In places where it was feared drought had ruined the crops many fields are found to have wheat that is well-filled and will make a good yield.

Good Burleigh Fields.

The southwest section has been hardest hit, although in some sections this damage has been over-estimated. Wheat on a farm of Dr. C. C. Hibbs, east of Bismarck, it is predicted, will average from 12 to 20 bushels an acre. There are 80 acres in this tract. Another field of over 100 acres will yield somewhat less. Dr. Hibbs estimates the entire yield at about 10 bushels.

Reports from around Beulah and Killdeer are optimistic, stating prospects are exceedingly good for a strong average yield. The same is true in north Burleigh and parts of McLean county.

A. W. Lucas Company Prepares For Strong Fall Trade

An indication of the confidence of local business men in the stability of the immediate business future is the announcement of A. W. Lucas and company that it is sending four buyers into the eastern field to buy fall goods for the Bismarck department store.

Miss Albina Plattner, buyer in the ready-to-wear department, is in New York now. Miss Inez Jones will leave next week for the east to buy millinery. G. A. Hassell left last night New York to do general buying and supervise purchases. A. W. Lucas will leave in about two weeks. The buying expedition will take three or four weeks.

Mr. Hassell will stop at Lake City, Minn., for a couple of days enroute east, where his wife and daughters are spending the summer.

Preparing for a strong fall and winter business a full line will be purchased for each department in the store.

FAIR WEATHER IS IN PROSPECT

Washington, July 23.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Monday include:

Region of Great Lakes and Upper Mississippi Valleys—Generally fair with temperature near or somewhat above normal.

There is however, a probability of local thunderstorms the beginning of the week.

BANDITS MAKE BIG BANK HAUL

Almeland, Minn., July 23.—Four bandits entered the Farmers State bank here at 9:30 a.m. today, held up the cashier and two customers, took $7,000 in $8,000 in cash and about $6,000 worth of Liberty Bonds and escaped in a touring car kept in readiness outside the bank by a fifth bandit.

Almeland is an inland town in Chicago county, 8 miles north of Center City, the county seat, and about 45 miles north of the Twin Cities.

The car in which the bandits escaped was traced as far as Sunrice, six miles north of here.

A Plea for Independence

This shows Former Governor-General Forbes (right) of the Philippines shaking hands with the leader of a delegation of Filipinos who have come to ask him for independence.

WOOD AND FORBES FIND FILIPINOS NOT READY FOR INDEPENDENCE

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.

Written Expressly for the Newspaper Enterprise Association.

Manila, July 23.—Immediate independence for the Philippines will not be the outcome of the Wood-Forbes Commission to the Islands.

The emissaries of President Harding, now touring the archipelago to obtain first-hand knowledge of conditions and report back to the president, will "point with pride" to the great strides made by Filipinos in some lines, but at the same time will view with alarm the lack of progress observed in certain other equally important directions.

The result of the investigation will be the testimony which will warrant President Harding recommending to Congress to hold on to the Philippines for some time to come.

Summed up such is the feeling here. General Wood is not responsible for this impression. Neither is ex-Governor Forbes. The general is too good a soldier, and the former governor general of the Philippines too experienced a diplomat, to spill the insular beans before they report to their chief.

In autos and on horse, afoot and afloat, early and late the two men are working like beavers digging up the facts upon which they will base their report. And they are saying little of what they think.

But observers who have talked with American old-timers here, and with the Filipinos, and who have had ample opportunity to see and hear much of what the Commission is seeing and hearing, invariably are led to the above conclusion.

Bound Up With Asia.

Foremost among the factors which must influence the commission, many here consider, is the general internal situation in the Far East.

The Philippines, they insist, cannot be treated as a separate problem. In their opinion the future of the islands is inextricably bound up with the future of Asia and the Orient generally.

All Americans in the islands are not retentions, but I have yet to talk with any really representative member of the community who does not think that to turn the Philippines loose at this juncture, without first obtaining a showdown from the Great Powers with regard to the Far Eastern situation, would be a national disgrace.

Furthermore the most ardent Patrick Henrys among the Filipinos themselves confess they see no objection.

Notifies Germany to Arrange

Paris, July 23.—Premier Briand, following a meeting of the council of minister at Ramonville yesterday has dispatched a telegram to Berlin requesting that he German government take all necessary steps to insure safe conduct through Germany of a new division of French troops which it is said in official circles will be ordered to Silesia within a few hours.

Instructions were sent late last night to the French ambassador in London requesting him to tell the British government that France considers it useless for the allies to establish a Silesian boundary without providing sufficient troops to enforce the provisions and adding that France intends to dispatch another division without waiting for action by the other allies.

FINDS DAIRYING INTEREST GROWS IN WESTERN N. D.

State Dairy Commissioner Tells of Visit to Grand Forks and Fargo Fairs

SEES MORE PURE BREDS

Praise is Given Flasher Dairy Circuit as Notable Effort in Western N. D.

Dairy production is steadily increasing in North Dakota with a strong tendency toward pure bred stock, according to J. J. Osterhous, state dairy commissioner, after visiting the Fargo and Grand Forks fairs and receiving reports from other parts of the state.

Production is increasing faster in the western half of the state, he said, and there is a greater increase in the breeding of pure bred stock in the eastern part, with a few exceptions. Unfavorable results from small grain crops has renewed interest in the western part of the state in dairying and beef cattle raising, he said.

A much larger proportion of pure bred cattle exhibited at the Grand Forks and Fargo fairs were from outside the state, said Mr. Osterhous. This was particularly true of dairy stock. This year some very fine stock from herds in North Dakota was seen at both fairs.

A notable step in the increase in dairying in the western part of the state is the Flasher Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association, he said. Organized on the general plan of the New Salem Holstein Breeders' Association, the herds have increased in one year in the Flasher circuit until at the first annual picnic held June 15 it was reported that there were 152 cows on regular test. The circuit embraces a larger territory than that of the New Salem circuit, including parts of Morton and Grant counties, he said.

The new circuits are being developed through a combination of efforts by farmers and business men. No counties have yet utilized the so-called "cow bill" passed a couple of years ago by the legislature, under which counties were permitted to bond for the purpose of aiding farmers to purchase dairy cattle.

SMUTS KNOWS BOTH SIDES!

Man Who's Making British-Irish Peace "Has Been There Himself"

GENERAL SMUTS

By Newspaper Enterprise

understand the viewpoint of De Valera and the Irish revolutionists. Because less than 20 years ago he was a revolutionist himself. He was a leader in the Boer war and it was through no fault of his that the war ended in a British victory.

See Other Side

If the conference succeeds in bringing peace to Ireland it will be General Smuts that Ireland and the British empire will have to thank.

And some are talking seriously of making him premier of Great Britain. The South African premier cater

his own country, South Africa, he loves the British Empire more than anything else in the world. That's why every observer here says that Smuts is the most logical intermediary to settle the wrangle between British and Ireland.

Putting over a peace agreement will not be a new thing for Smuts. He's a skilful and experienced political engineer.

His first big political achievement was when he helped to bring together the various South African states into the Union of South Africa shortly after the Boer war.

Then, after the World War, he compiled the principles that are the foundation of the present League of Nations. As a testimonial to his work, the general secretary of the League of Nations was offered to him. He declined.

With equal ease General Smuts can hoe a garden, try a lawsuit, cool a meal command an army, tend cattle, frame a treaty, play with children, read Greek literature in the original, debate in parliament or treat sick cattle.

The Irish peacemaker refers to himself as the "best-bred man in South Africa." There he is affectionately called "Jannie."

Witty And Cynical

Though of Dutch birth he lacks the heaviness of temperament and seriousness that are characteristic of the Teuton. He is of light temperament, witty, intellectual, a little cynical.

Despite the triumphs of his statesmanship, he is not politically ambitious. He serves for the sake of serving and because he really has at heart the future of the British empire.

He dresses plainly. When going about London, he wears simple civilian clothes rather than the trappings of a British lieutenant-general, which he is privileged to wear.

His favorite diversion is reading in his well-stocked library at his South Africa home. When he has given to his country all the service he can, he will retire to the quiet of his estate, he tells friends.

He is known as a tireless worker. From morning to night, he wades through stacks of official documents, confidential dispatches and reports. He rarely takes a holiday, and a vacation—never.

Smuts abhors social life. His dislike of receptions and other functions is shared by Mrs. Smuts, a plain Dutch housewife. Wives of high British dignitaries in South Africa never can seem to find Mrs. Smuts at home.

Smuts has a wide range of information and a firm grasp of world problems. He is at ease in discussing American constitutional government and classical Greek literature, the Polish Silesian question and the latest methods of intensive farming.

The South African statesman is comparatively a young man. He's 52. He was born on a farm within 50 miles of Cape Town, South Africa.

Until young Smuts was 12, his only teachers were fowls and cattle. He spent the days herding geese, cows, sheep and horses.

On the big South African farm which was not much different from the ranches of the western United States, Smuts learned to prepare his own meals over an open camp fire.

At the age of 12 he started his elementary education.

That finished, he attended Victoria College, Schellenbach, South Africa. He was graduated with a scholarship which permitted him to enter Cambridge University, England.

His Early Failure

At Cambridge he took the highest honors in law and returned to Cape Town to start legal practice.

He was at first unsuccessful and spent his spare time writing for both the English and Dutch South African newspapers.

Then he was appointed state attorney for the Transvaal republic.

The Boer war broke out. Smuts entered the Boer service and fought bitterly against the British whom he considered as aggressors. Before the war ended he was given supreme command of the republican forces.

After the British triumph he quietly accepted British rule and flung himself into British service as enthusiastically as he had opposed the British a few months before.

In 1907 he was appointed colonial secretary in the Transvaal.

In the World War he drove the Germans from Africa.

Regarding Ireland, Smuts says "Ireland is the case of a sick soul which has to be cured."

"Ireland belongs to a group of nations which has solved all its political problems in the past and which is capable of solving her troubles too."

BURKE COUNTY CASE IN COURT

Action Begun By State Aganist The Treasurer

Minot, July 22.—An order was issued by Judge John C. Lowe in district court in Minot requiring Lawrence Larsen, former treasurer of Burke county, and 15 Burke county banks, to appear in the district court in Minot Monday, July 25, at 10 a. m. and show cause why the money loaned to the banks by the retiring county treasurer prior to his leaving office should not be returned to the county. A petition for an alternative writ of mandamus was filed with Judge Lowe by F. R. Sinker of Minot, who has been employed by the citizens of Burke county, the state of North Dakota and C. J. Koprowski, county auditor of Burke county, the plaintiffs.

According to the allegations made in the petition, Larsen loaned $166,500 of county money to Burke county banks on time deposit just before he retired from office May 1.

The petition alleged that there is now past due and owing from Burke county to the state of North Dakota and to the various cities, villages, townships, school districts and political subdivisions of Burke county from tax money collected and that unless the money is returned there will be no money on hand and available in the hands of the treasurer of Burke county with which to pay necessary governmental expenses, and it will be

Because of the shortage of horses it was a common sight in these districts, according to the inspector's reports, to see men and women pulling plows in the fields.

Arrangements have been made by the relief administration officials to get food to these districts as soon as possible and, during the summer, kitchens will be established where all children up to 17 years of age will receive one full meal each day.

Thousands Made Homeless Re- turn to Former Place of Residence and Start Over

Warsaw, July 22.—Inspectors of the American Relief Administration of the European Children's Fund, which is feeding 1,000,000 children in Poland have just explored districts along the eastern frontier of the new republic where thousands of persons made homeless by war are living in soldiers' dugouts and where no white bread has been seen in more than three years. Heretofore, it has been almost impossible to reach these areas chiefly because of lack of transportation.

In the Prilep marsh country, between Prilep and the Russian border, one inspector reported that after reaching the railroad terminal he had traveled two days by automobile, then by boat and by horseback to visit people who had been reported in need. Potatoes had been the principal food upon which these people existed during the winter, the inspector reported, and with the coming of spring, men, women and children lived chiefly upon cooked grass, dandelions and some farm products.

At various points along the frontier, which follows the old German-Russian trench line of 1917, peasants who had been driven from their homes by advancing armies, have been returning, only to find their homes demolished and virtually everything gone excepting the bare land. They have taken to the dugouts for shelter until they are able to build shacks upon their holdings.

In scores of villages in this battle area not one house has been left standing. They were demolished either during the fighting between the Russians and the Germans or afterward when the Bolsheviks invaded territory which is now a part of Poland. No attempts have been made to reorganize the local government.

In 1914 the village of Toboly had 124 buildings. Not a house is left standing. Of the inhabitants about 700 are living in dugouts and 800 other persons have sought shelter in nearby barracks.

S. D. BATTLE WITH RADICALS STARTED IN 1908

Recent Disorders Recall History of I. W. W. Activities in Neighboring State

STATE SHERIFF ACTIVE

Influx of Farm Labor Has Been Problem For Authorities
For Many Years

Pierre, S. D., July 23.—Two recent shootouts, one at Wolsey and one at Milbank, both alleged to have been committed by members of the I. W. W., recall the first serious disorders in South Dakota which were attributed to that organization in 1910. As far back as 1908, great hordes of itinerant harvest hands have annually swarmed into the state about midsummer, either searching for work here or bound for the North Dakota grain fields. Minor disorders among these men were not uncommon but seldom did they reach serious proportions.

New Element Appears

In 1915 a new element appeared—men who were enlisting members for the Industrial Workers of the World, an organization originating in the east in 1905, but which up to that time was little known in the agricultural states of the northwest. These men converted many of the invading harvest hands to their cause, but the union was not then sufficiently strong to make itself felt in any marked degree.

The following year, however, nearly one half of the incoming army of harvest hands carried the red membership card of the I. W. W. A building in the railroad yards at Aberdeen was rented by the organization and headquarters established with a regular office force in charge. Threats of violence were alleged to have been uttered against those who refused to join the organization and the rumblings of the approaching storm were distinctly heard in several sections in the eastern part of the state as well as in North Dakota and Minnesota.

First Blow

The first blow fell at Redfield on July 26, when a crowd, estimated at about 500, equally divided between I. W. W.'s and those who refused to join, came to blow in the railroad yards. Guns came into play during the melee and before the local authorities gained control of the situation, several of both parties had been wounded.

Simultaneously with the news of the Redfield disorder came word of serious trouble at Mitchell, Aberdeen, Huron and several other places. The trouble makers were well organized, had little or no respect for life or property and would appear so unexpectedly and in such large numbers that local authorities had difficulty in coping with the situation. Acts of violence were frequent. For several days in succession, freight trains were commandeered, the crews ejected or compelled to obey their captors at the point of guns, and whole trainloads of men would be shifted from one locality to another without interference.

Early indications for a big crop had brought thousands of men seeking work into the state, but when they arrived they found black rust had reduced the crop to a minimum. Finally the wave passed on and the labor situation resolved itself back to normal.

Laws Enacted

The legislature which convened the winter of 1917, attention called to the serious character of the preceding summer and promptly enacted laws intended to prevent a recurrence. One of these laws made it a misdemeanor for any person, either individually or as a member of a mob, to ride on a railway train in the state, without the consent of the conductor, and felony if the person carried a gun or other dangerous weapon. Another law enacted that winter, with the same purpose in view, conferred upon all railway conductors in the state police power with authority to make arrests. These it was believed would put an end to the I. W. W. movement here, for it was contended, if they could not ride

THIS YOUNG MOTHER

Tells Childless Women What
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are very fond of children and for a considerable time after we married I feared I would not have any owing to my weak condition. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I have a nice strong healthy baby girl. I can honestly say that I did not suffer much more when my baby was born than I used to suffer with my periods before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound years ago. I give all the credit to your medicine and shall always recommend it very highly."—Mrs. H. H. Janssen, Millston, Wisconsin.

How can women who are weak and sickly expect or hope to become mothers of healthy children? Their first duty is to themselves. They should overcome the derangement or debility that is dragging them down, and strengthen the entire system, as did Mrs. Janssen, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and then they will be in a position to give their children the blessing of a good constitution.

Introducing John S. Young, Fish Doctor

By R. J. Gibbons
Chicago, July 16.—John S. Young is doctor of 4275 fish.
His tiny charges get sick frequently.

One of the most common piscatorial ailments just now, the doctor says, is whooping cough.

Young presides over the aquatic display of a department store here.

He started studying for the job as a boy by operating on fish which he caught in the Gulf of Mexico.

One of his most arduous duties is bathing the fish patients every Saturday night.

Three pet eels, tractable enough at other times, do slippery shimmies on bath night to escape.

Young carries a medicine kit resembling the family physician's.

free they would stay away from the state altogether.

The next summer, the first year of America's entry into the World War, proved the fallacy of this belief. I. W. W.'s began arriving long before the harvest was well under way, and were even more ugly and more diabolical than they had been the previous year. They attempted to establish the wage scale, visited turn houses demanding food, coerced those not belonging to their organization to take out membership cards and openly preached their doctrine, urging arson and sabotage in various forms.

State Sheriff

The state sheriff, a newly created office at that time, who was empowered to call sheriffs and their deputies from the various counties to organize a state constabulary, was forced to use this authority to quell the threatening attitude of the invaders in and around Aberdeen.

During the season a diminutive "reign of terror" existed in every community in the state east of the Missouri river. Numerous fields of standing grain, ready for the binder were burned and scores of elevators

BOND CANVASS MADE IN CITY

Committee Begins With Solicitation of State Employees

Today was designated as Bond Sales day in the state by Governor Flanigan.

Particular effort was made to sell bonds in Bismarck. The campaign began yesterday afternoon when the state capitol was canvassed and Nonpartisan employees were asked to buy bonds, girls stenographers being included among those selected.

A committee which included several women also visited numerous downtown places in Bismarck selling state bonds.

The campaign is being carried on in all parts of the state today. The committee of women which visited business places was accompanied by a man. The women are members of the Nonpartisan women's organization.

GIRLS PASS GOVT. EXAMINATION

No one was really surprised that the entire stenographic class passed a recent Civil Service examination. All four, Misses Grinley, Ployhar, Moe and Brenden, were trained at Dakota Business College, Fargo, N. D., a school famous for turning out exceptionally efficient office workers. Courses are practical, interesting, give pupils a solid groundwork for success. Some 218 graduates are now bank officers.

and other buildings met a similar fate. Large pieces of steel were concealed in bundles of grain, which caused no end of trouble and expense when the grain was threshed. All of these things were attributed to the I. W. W.'s, who, it was alleged, used a phosphorus preparation in starting the conflagrations. With the aid of this material the perpetrators could be many miles away before the fire actually became alive.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

(Established 1873)

A GOOD SIGN

We like the sign the Business Men's Club of London, Ohio, has hung up in that city's streets:

"Drive slow and see our city!"

"Drive fast and see our jail!"

Purists may object to the use of the adjective "slow" in place of the adverb "slowly." But it is reported from London that all visiting motorists understand its meaning, despite the grammar.

FUEL SHORTAGE

Judging from the figures for soft coal production, a business revival this fall will be followed by a fuel shortage during the winter. During the first six months of the year only 196,000,000 tons of soft coal were mined. This means less than 400,000,000 tons for the year. The last year that the country required less than 400,000,000 tons was 1909.

CREDITS

Long time credits and rock bottom prices seem to be what are required if the United States is to compete successfully for foreign business.
China has just placed an order for 300 freight cars in Belgium and 35 locomotives in England.
American firms were underbid about 30 per cent and their credit proposals were equally to their disadvantage.All things being equal the Chinese would prefer to trade with us but prices and credit terms are what talk.

GOOD NEWS

Secretary Mellon of the treasury has given definite assurances to the Senate Finance Committee that the administration has no intention of recommending the cancellation of foreign loans. He disclosed that the very interesting suggestion that the debts of the allies to each other be wiped out, has been made to the United States twice by the British government.The British remind us of the man who said that he just missed owning the New York Central Railroad.

"How it that?" asked his friend.

"I asked Mr. Vanderbilt if he would give it to me. He said he wouldn't. If he had said yes, I would own it."

WELFARE DEPARTMENT

Postmaster General Hays has organized his welfare department for postal employees and a big insurance executive from New York has taken the job of running it without pay.There are 300,000 employees in the department and it is no reflection on other government employees to say that taken as a whole they are the hardest worked and most loyal men and women in Uncle Sam's service. They have never received the consideration that they have deserved either in wages or working conditions.It speaks well for the intelligence and fairness of the new postmaster general that he not only appreciates their situation, but that he is translating this appreciation into terms of practical relief.The welfare department may be a small beginning but it is in such contrast to the government's previous attitude of demanding everything and giving nothing that it deserves the commendation of the public.

WHERE YOU'D BE COOL

Lucky, compared with you who are sweltering in the summer heat, is Captain Joseph F. Bernard, explorer-scientist. Ice-trapped three years on the white fringe of the North Polar world, he found life there so attractive that he's sailed again from Seattle for a cruise in the ocean north of Siberia.

How would you like to make the trip with him?
Wouldn't it beat staying in Bismarck the next few months, swatting flies and trying to keep cool.Captain Bernard started his previous voyage into the Far North in August, 1916.A year later, his ship was north of Hudson Bay, cruising cautiously eastward, groping to find an open channel through the Arctic islands out into the Atlantic ocean.The wall of ice on each side closed in. The open sea was close at hand. If Bernard had started his voyage two hours sooner, he'd have made the ice open. But he was two hours behind, and the ice caught his ship and held it fast."It wasn't pleasant to be cut off from all contact with the outside world," says Bernard.
"When we left Nome in 1916, the last war news we heard was about a naval battle between the British and Germans in the North Sea."When we finally got out of the ice, we heard that the war was over. It was especially amazing to know that the United States had entered the conflict."The Arctic ocean peoples are being wiped out by disease and contact with civilization, Captain Bernard reports.Far North islands, which early explorers found thickly populated, are now sparsely settled.The natives are crazy about the rifles brought in by traders and are shooting themselves out of game for food and clothing.If such reckless practices keep up, says Captain Bernard, the Canadian government within 10 years may have to feed and clothe the northern natives to prevent their extinction.That would end one of the most daring racial movements of history, for scientists believe that the Arctic ocean natives are descended from Russia Tartars who fled in skin-canoes from fierce Chinese armies.Your ancient ancestral tribes used to go north in summer and toward the equator in winter, following the seasons.That's why you yearn for the north now—why you envy Captain Bernard and his crew of scientist-adventurers.It seems that the more we develop transportation, the more inclined we are to stay in one locality and send out roots.Will the flying machine end that? A few hundred years from now, will the city worker commute through the air to a summer home in northern Canada and a winter home near the equator?

IN IDYLLIC KANSAS

Senator Capper of Kansas was 56 years old on July 14, and thousands of children in Topeka celebrated his birthday at his expense. He has given these parties for several years. There are games for the boys and girls and ice cream without stint —trained nurses always being thoughtfully provided to deal with emergency cases—flowers from the gardens and fields and, of course, many, many flowers of rhetoric. The Senator's own newspaper, The Daily Capital, which bears his name at the head of its editorial page, took crafty advantage of his being absorbed in work for the public welfare at Washington to explain that "contributing to the pleasure of children is the most prominent fact of Arthur Capper's life."Shall the cynic sneer at this? He will not if he knows his Kansas. It is a State where emotions are spontaneous and not at all complex, and wherethe yield of poetry and sentiment per acre is almost as great as that of wheat. From a thousand main traveled roads in Kansas, and from ten thousand flitters with farmers, a chorus of at-claim goes up for the public man who is good to his old mother and does not forget the little ones.
Let hardened politicians try to learn somethingfrom that happy region where kind hearts are more than primaries and simple faith than al-ways. He's been lying in one position, strapped normal majorities on the elections. — New York

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

"I wait until tonight," said Marty softly to himself.

Cob Coon used to watch Blackie Bass too. Having better eyes than Marty Mink, he'd climb into the willow over the pool and peer down into the water over Blackie's head. He too was puzzled, for, like Marty, he found it impossible to make out whether the long dark object was a shadow or a stone on the bank he coveted.

Cob was hungry. He hadn't had a good fill since winter and corn was just being planted. He did love fish, especially bass, and he made up his mind to find out what the object was, so he watched and watched, same as Marty did only he watched moonlight nights, while Marty watched in the daytime.

Blackie saw them both and chuckled although he chuckled quite solemnly.

It was Marty who discovered that the long dark object was a fish, because once when he was watching Blackie, he forgot and made a grab for it.

"De Duck" Got All The Money From Farmer's Load Of Corn, He Tells Banker

Dubuque, Iowa, July 23.—A farmer tried today to explain to a local banker the necessity of a loan to tide him over a lean period.

"I don't understand," said the banker. "Why you should want to borrow when you have just shipped your corn. What did you do with the money?"

"De duck got it," replied the farmer. "What do you mean by 'de duck'?"

"Well," explained the banker, "I shipped the car to market and sold it for 52 cents. They de duck freight that left 31 cents, de duck 1 cent commission, that left 30 cents, de duck elevator charges, that leaves 27 cents;

de duck husking, that left 15 cents; de duck hauling that leaves 5 cents; de duck the hired man's wages from that,

and you are a darn sight better farmer than I am if you can find anything left."

MANDAN NOTES

MANDAN MEN ORGANIZE OIL COMPANY

The Torchlight Oil & Gas company, organized under the laws of Wyoming by North Dakota men, most of whom are residents of Mandan, has been approved by the "blue sky" board of the state of North Dakota and authorized to sell stock in this state.

The main office of the company is at Greybull, Wyo., with the branch office at Mandan. William Maas of this city is president; J. J. Vogt, banker of Hague, N. D., is vice president, and John A. Timmerman of Mandan is secretary. These three with the addition of Frank Wigmill, Greybull, Wyo., and E. G. Rickel of Bismarck constitute the board of directors.

According to the government report, the oil lies in three sands in the Torchlight dome. The shallow oil is at the 400 to 600 foot level, oil in what is known as the Klimb sand, while other oil lies in the 1100 foot and the 2,100 foot levels, say the geologists. The shallow wells produce from 50 to 300 barrels of oil a day, it is said.

The Lewis & Clark Oil company launched some months ago by Oberl Olson, former state treasurer, H. O. Baizer of Hazelton, Angus Frazier and other Bismarck men have leases of oil land near that held by the Torchlight Oil & Gas company. The Bismarck group have drilled two wells. In one of these the drill was dropped just as the oil sand was reached and they have since drilled another. The first well has 600 feet of oil standing in the casing and the second has 400 feet of oil. Neither well has been "shot" as yet.

Geologists watching the "log" of the drilling in the Bismarck company's project declare the formations disclosed show that the crest of the oil dome centers diagonally across Section 30, held by the Mandan men.

HARDING TO VISIT MANDAN
George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to president Warren Harding, has written to Secretary Thomas H. Sullivan of the Mandan Commercial club indicating that if he contemplated a trip to the west coast by the President is made, he may stop in this city.

Secretary Christian declares that it will not be possible for him to make such a trip while congress is in session.

He continues: "You may be sure that he will be glad to keep your wishes in mind in the event he determines upon a western trip."

Secretary Sullivan wrote to the president's secretary upon publication of a news dispatch saying the president might take a cross continental trip this summer.

The body of John Popelka, aged 45, farmer, who blew off his head Wednesday morning with a shotgun, was buried in the local cemetery yesterday. The funeral services were held from the Kennelly chapel.

John Lantry, killed beneath a falling wall of the Schaeffer building Wednesday, probably will be buried tomorrow afternoon. Coroner John Kennelly received information from Supt. T. H. Lantry that the dead man was no relation to him. The brother in Milwaukee has not been located.
